In conclusion

On the published figures, Fulford School and All Saints Catholic School York are level at the top, within 5 points of each other on our score. Fulford School has the highest results and lowest absence of the six; All Saints Catholic School York is the nearest and the most heavily oversubscribed. This is a reading of the published figures, not a recommendation, and your family's own circumstances should decide. Absence is above the England average at every school here, so it is worth asking each school about attendance. Visit the schools you are considering, read their latest Ofsted reports, and check admissions arrangements and dates with the school or the local council.

Next steps

1. Visit. See the schools you are considering for yourself. Most hold open days or evenings before applications close.
2. Read the latest inspection report. Ofsted publishes every report at reports.ofsted.gov.uk, and the latest one says far more than its grade.
3. Read the admissions policy. Each school's oversubscription criteria decide who is offered a place when there are more applicants than places.
4. Apply on time. Apply through the council where you live by 31 October 2027, using every preference you are allowed. Offers are made on National Offer Day, 1 March 2028.

About this report

How the schools were chosen

The 6 nearest open state secondary schools in England within 8 km of YO1 7HH, measured in a straight line from the postcode's centre. Independent schools are not included. Distance in a straight line is not the same as a school's catchment or the distance an admissions authority measures.

Our score

A composite from 0 to 100, graded A to F, built only from published data: exam results, progress where it is published, attendance and, in England, Ofsted inspection. Where a measure is not published the score is built from those that are, and schools with too little data are not scored. The full method is at findgreatschools.co.uk/our-score.

Inspection

Ofsted inspects every state school in England. Schools inspected from 10 November 2025 receive a report card graded across several areas; earlier inspections carry a single overall grade.

Results

Primary schools: the share of Year 6 pupils meeting the expected standard in reading, writing and maths (KS2). Secondary schools: Attainment 8, the average grade across eight GCSE subjects (KS4).

Attendance

Overall absence: the share of sessions missed, published by the Department for Education.

Admissions

Department for Education applications and offers for the normal point of entry. "Applications per place" counts every time a family named the school on its application, at any preference, for each offer the school made. "First choices offered a place" is the share of families who put the school first and were offered a place there. These figures describe demand. They are not a prediction of whether your child would be offered a place, which depends on the school's own admissions criteria and on everyone else who applies that year. Check each school's admissions policy, and your local authority's admissions guide, before you apply.
